16:44:12 From Dave - Crescent City:
Jim, I will had Ridgeway too. (SMILE)

16:44:32 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas:

I have a quick somethin somethin as well

16:44:36 From Kade Bolger Ontario, Canada:
Thank you Dan. I'm glad you enjoyed it and learned a thing or two. cheers.

16:44:41 From Bob Moffett - N.C.:
If anyone is interested, Woodcraft has ebony pen blanks (about 4" long) on sale for $7.99 for 10.
I use them for finials and birdhouse perches.

16:44:52 From Jeff Mundkowsky - Midland TX:
I have a couple of items to show

16:44:57 From Dave - Crescent City:
Will add Oklahoma City too. I think it is on right now.

16:52:06 From John, N. Phoenix:
You in Tucson Doug?

16:52:34 From Dane Chandler -Tucson AZ:
he's Prescott. I'm Tucson

16:52:48 From John, N. Phoenix:
TX

16:53:16 From Brent Sobotka:
I've got a piece to show when there is time.

16:53:29 From Pohl Barn in Michigan:
yeah he blamed me for it turning into Bird wood !

16:55:04 From Pohl Barn in Michigan:
Rod Humphrey

16:55:37 From Pohl Barn in Michigan:
<https://www.youtube.com/user/vipergrunt>

16:55:46 From Pohl Barn in Michigan:
Rod's youtube channel

16:57:59 From Pohl Barn in Michigan:
Face Palm I tell ya

17:00:38 From Bruce from TN:
I would use a vacuum to hold the piece to make my bowl.

17:01:26 From Matt Harber:
If you wanted to use a tenon, you could also make a donut to rest the bowl on while you routed it.
You could even use a waste block, too.

17:12:29 From Pohl Barn in Michigan:
What did he say I said LOL

17:12:46 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas:
LOL

17:15:12 From Jennifer Golden:
Question - How long has the resin cured? Would it be more likely to chip out if it cured longer?

17:15:43 From Pohl Barn in Michigan:
The longer the resin cures the harder it gets

17:16:16 From Pohl Barn in Michigan:
I like to turn my resin projects the next day before it get fully cured

17:17:02 From Andy Phillips Corpus Christi:
What is a good resin to use to fill voids in the side of a bowl that is too large to put in my pressure pot. Andy

17:17:27 From Dane Chandler -Tucson AZ:
I use system three

17:17:42 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas:

And how much harder depends on the type of resin used.

17:17:57 From Jennifer Golden:

So we want to turn the resin when it is fresh, but should I wait to let it harden longer before buffing?

17:18:58 From Bob Grinstead - Mansfield, TX.:

18:09:08 From Dan Rozell - Claremore, OK:

Question on pens... I once heard that you should not use any wood that hasn't been stabilized specifically for pen blank usage. As in time they will fail. I made a couple using 'firewood' and 3/4 maple dimensional stock and have no issues...so far 18:09:37 From Paul Hannaby creative-woodturning.com:

You just need dry wood, it doesn't need to be stabilised

18:09:49 From John, N. Phoenix:

I have something to show

18:10:18 From Dan Rozell - Claremore, OK:

Thank you Paul! That was my thought, but wanted a more experienced opinion.

18:10:19 From Jeff Mundkowsky - Midland TX:

Thanks Waukeene! I will check that video out.

18:10:48 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas:

Dan, I've made and sold hundreds of pens with wood that was not stabilized and I've not heard any negatives from any of my customers... and that's been as long as 15 years.

18:11:18 From Dan Rozell - Claremore, OK:

Thanks Billy!

18:12:38 From Andy S.-Harrisville Pa:

Well folks, time to head out, Thanks again for all the info and inspiration. See everyone next week

18:14:07 From Kade Bolger Ontario, Canada:

I got something.

18:14:57 From Matt Harber:

Yep, I made a ton of pens from pen blanks I cut from trees I cut. All successful. Mostly cherry, walnut, maple.

18:15:21 From Matt Harber:

Drill guide Kit I used (still $15):

18:20:18 From Matt Harber:
I have one other thing to show....

18:23:02 From Michael Stratton:
That's beautiful Kade

18:23:32 From James Desbrow San antonio:
Great job Kade.

18:24:11 From Waukeene Vinson, CC, Texas:
Fantastic piece Kade

18:25:51 From Matt Harber:
That's gorgeous!!

18:26:08 From Dave Leader:
If you don't want to drive to Canada you can get stone powders on eBay.

18:26:47 From Dave Leader:
Metal powders too

18:27:45 From Matt Harber:
Pay attention to the hardness of your stone inlay
- our HSS tools are hardness 6. Quartz and amethyst are hardness 7 and will chew up HSS tools (and carbides).

18:30:22 From Tres Lennep:
might try silicon carbide sand paper to cut stone. I use it to on my stone cutting machine

18:33:40 From Kade Bolger Ontario, Canada:
Thank you Everyone!

18:34:00 From Dane Chandler -Tucson AZ:
good job kade!

18:34:38 From Dan Rozell - Claremore, OK:
Love how Matt has better network reception in his shop than in his house...lol

18:55:14 From Kade Bolger Ontario, Canada:
there is 5he link to the R9vert Sorby drilling jig

18:58:01 From Neil Mack Florida:
no leave it on her pillow

18:59:31 From Paul Hannaby creative-woodturning.com:
I think this is the drill guide Mike Waldt used.
This one needs you to make your own toolpost
whereas the Sorby one has the toolpost with it.

19:01:06 From Michael Stratton:
Well it's 3am here in the UK so I'm off to bed good morning all.

19:01:17 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas:
That looks just like the one Matt shared

19:01:28 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas:
Night, Mick

19:02:07 From Matt Harber:
Yep it does....

19:04:34 From Matt Harber:
Except maybe the one from Axminster is in metric..... grin!

19:05:41 From Matt Harber:
LOL! ... I just looked, the Axminster one does indeed have metric bushings.

19:05:59 From Matt Harber:
Good night, Mick!

19:06:15 From Kade Bolger Ontario, Canada:
night Mick

19:07:10 From Dave - Crescent City:
Night All, thanks for the night

19:07:14 From Henry Hogge:
Thanks all! Goodnite!

19:07:17 From Neil Mack Florida:

good night!
