I have. A egg

17:09:42 From Matt Harber to Everyone:
Thank you, everyone!

17:10:45 From Matt Harber to Everyone:
Greg, you share an image by doing a "share screen",
then picking your window with your image ready to go.
Best way to do this, load the image into an image viewer, then do the "share screen".

17:13:20 From Doug Moore in Michigan to Everyone:
Hey Hey

17:13:28 From Doug Moore in Michigan to Everyone:
Those are Awesome Douggie !

17:13:33 From Matt Harber to Everyone:

<https://www.amazon.com/Sonjas-Artist-Acrylic-Iridescent-Turquoise/dp/B00A6W9TXG>

17:23:21 From Robert Talluto to Everyone:

Thank you Doug . Nice demo.

17:23:34 From Matt Harber to Everyone:

Golden makes iridescent and interference paints.

I've successfully used black gesso sanded to 600 grit.

I've used metallic acrylic paints to great effect, also.

And Flotrol....

17:23:39 From KimTippin to Everyone:

Beautiful, Doug!!!

17:23:53 From Patrick Hoggard to Everyone:

I have a picture of a lidded vessel I did string pull on I can show.

I really appreciate everyone's support!

18:16:35 From Matt Harber to Everyone:
Good stuff, Dave and Trisha!

18:17:04 From Dave Leader to Everyone:
I'd like to have at least the dimensions of the playing card holder - if not a demo

18:19:00 From Doug Miller in Kentucky to Everyone:
Sorry to say, but I need to slide out for tonight.
Thank you all. It was a great night.

18:19:16 From Matt Harber to Everyone:
Good night, Doug! Great demo!

18:20:46 From Mark Sillay's iPhone to Everyone:
I will do a demonstration on tenonless joinery next week if you want. Mark Sillay

18:23:03 From Dane Chandler -Tucson AZ to Everyone:
sounds good Mark!

18:25:07 From Randy Smith - Pennsylvania to Everyone:
See you all next week. Spring is coming! Take care, be safe!

18:25:13 From Bob Grinstead - Mansfield, TX. to Everyone:
The card holder is a 10"d x 2" blank. The card slot is 1-1/4" deep.
The inside lip is 1/4" shorter than the outside rim. It is turned using a 2-1/8" mortis cut all of the way thru. Turn the bottom first then turn it around to finish the top.
It is cut into two pieces when finished. On the back side draw an X thru the center. 1" off the center thru the center to the other side.
Cut on the lines.

18:27:18 From Sean to Everyone:
Greetings from Virginia Beach

18:27:53 From Bob Grinstead - Mansfield, TX. to Everyone:
I had three crosses blow up on the lathe. Pieces were too hard.

18:28:09 From Sean to Everyone:
looks like it might possibly have been a large amount of overhang

18:29:07 From Matt Harber to Everyone:
For what it's worth, here's my goblet turning YouTube video:
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=PrPvVHoySNA>

18:29:44 From Dave Rhodes - Crescent City to Everyone:
Thanks for asking that Stephen, and the answer Kade !!

18:30:20 From Sean to Everyone:
That is why I prefer gouge for goblets.

18:33:38 From davej to Everyone:
Great scrapper use Kade! Thanks!

18:35:30 From Sean to Everyone:
Osage Orange has moved more than an inch on a 8" bowl for me.

18:36:00 From Matt Harber to Everyone:
Carbide tools are essentially scrapers, as Kade said, and they can be turned on edge to shear scrape.

Night everyone

19:05:40 From Dave Leader to Everyone:
I found several pallets that were oak

19:06:15 From Dave Leader to Everyone:
Also, look at pallets for wood that is common from other countries
but we call exotic woods

19:06:23 From Matt Harber to Everyone:
I got some pallet wood awhile back that was macassar ebony....

19:06:32 From Sean to Everyone:
WOW, Nice find
