Joyner Off Center Jig - $98.00 on Ruth Niles web site

16:51:02 From Tim Hatch Bastrop, TX to Everyone:
I paid less for it at SWAT... Check out Carl Jacobson on the vender site.. might be a little less

16:52:54 From Paula to Everyone:
I wanna try that, very cool!

16:55:27 From Bob Moffett - N.C. to Everyone:
I have a piece to show

16:58:03 From Stephen Makuka to Everyone:
Question for the group - I'm considering buying a hallowing system. What are your thoughts about the difference between an Articulated Arm rig (Trent Bosch) vs a Captured Bar system (Lyle Jamison)? What are the Pros and Cons of these systems. Thanks.

16:59:16 From Jeff Walters Michigan to Everyone:
I have a Jamison Hollowing rig and love it.

16:59:18 From Bob Grinstead - Mansfield, Texas to Everyone:
I like Lyle's system. Both work well.

16:59:43 From Cap'n Eddie Castelin to Everyone:
i go for the articulating arm. I have built my own, but JT tools made a great one. 5 minute setup and safe as can ne

17:00:15 From Bob Grinstead - Mansfield, Texas to Everyone:
I made both too

17:00:19 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas to Everyone:
My 2 cents, Stephen... articulated systems are great for pieces a foot deep or less... roughly. Captured systems are much better for deep vessels ie 4 feet or more. All that said, I only do shallow forms and have an articulated system.

17:01:27 From Stephen Makuka to Everyone:
Thanks guys.

17:02:41 From Heather-Spiritwynd Wood Stone and Bone to Everyone:
which one would be best for urns? I have someone asking for one, and of course if I make one, I'm sure I'll get asked for more

17:03:49 From Jeff Walters Michigan to Everyone:
I use the Jamison with the deep boring bar to make animal URS that are about 8-10 inches deep.

17:04:47 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas to Everyone:
Heather, either would work for urns since they aren't usually much more than a foot deep. Most articulated systems are less expensive... or were when I got mine.

17:05:05 From Cap'n Eddie Castelin to Everyone:
I wasn't a machine shop, but I built both rigs in my shop with a wire welder. the real secret is the cutter.

17:05:49 From Heather-Spiritwynd Wood Stone and Bone to Everyone:
thanks Billy

17:05:50 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas to Everyone:
I don't trust my welding...

17:05:51 From Jeff Walters Michigan to Everyone:
I think the least expensive articulating arm system is from Simple Woodturning Tools

17:08:23 From James Desbrow to Everyone:
take a look at Ron Brown's Best hollowing system

17:08:24 From Stephen Makuka to Everyone:
Do you need access room on the far side of the lathe for a captured bar system? My lathe is next to a wall and I don't have a lot of reach on the far side of the lathe.

17:09:24 From Gerald Jensen to Everyone:
I have had the Simple hollowing system for 5 or 6 years ... been very happy with it. You're not going to go deep with it like you can with a Jamieson, Sinner, etc. but I have gone close to 9" with no problem.

17:09:48 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas to Everyone:
You might, Stephen, depending on the size system you get.

17:10:25 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas to Everyone:
Some don't require that much room, but Lyle's big system does.

17:11:07 From Jeff Walters Michigan to Everyone:
Yes it does and also a longer bed mount if you have a short bed lathe

17:11:26 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas to Everyone:
Very true, Jeff

17:13:02 From Randy Smith - PA to Everyone:
I have seen turners cover the spinners with painters tape. Put a tag end that will hit you BEFORE the metal pieces.

17:13:06 From Michael Stratton to Everyone:
If you could get hold of old English Billiard balls they were made of real Ivory.

17:13:35 From Scott Hampton, Visalia, CA to Everyone:
Stephen, If you're lathe is up against a wall yo are better off with a 'Elbo Hollowing Jig' like Trent Bosch and Tim Yoder sells

17:13:45 From Stephen Makuka to Everyone:
I am leaning towards the articulated arm due to reach issue, but I'm also concerned about excessive flex due to the joints.

17:13:45 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas to Everyone:
Randy, those likely wouldn't warn me quick enough... lol

17:14:24 From Scott Hampton, Visalia, CA to Everyone:
Tim Yoder's system works great.

17:14:41 From Tim Hatch Bastrop, TX to Everyone:
if you where crafty and made your own jigs you could probably make one similar to Ron Browns Doughnut chuck to hold that ball... just a thought...
<https://www.ronbrownsbest.com/index.php?route=product/category&path=42&pages=1-1#p734>

17:14:51 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas to Everyone:
I don't get excessive flex with my Elbo Tool, Stephen

17:14:59 From Scott Hampton, Visalia, CA to Everyone:
I haven't used Trent Bosch's system but it's very similar.

17:15:26 From Cap'n Eddie Castelin to Everyone:
Or sand it with it being offset a few time in tthe chuck

17:15:29 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas to Everyone:
And I've put a lot of stress on it!

17:15:51 From Gerald Jensen to Everyone:
Billy ... Is you Elbo the original or the updated version Tim came out with a while back?

17:16:12 From Randy Smith - PA to Everyone:
A 4-way screw driver has a 1/4" nut driver on one end and a 5/16" nut driver on the other end.

17:16:21 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas to Everyone:

Gerlad, mine is the original. His new one is considerably more beefy!

17:16:54 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas to Everyone:
I want one, I just can't justify it... if you know what I mean

17:17:54 From Billy Dillard Houma, Louisiana to Everyone:
what is this ball made of?

17:18:35 From Gerald Jensen to Everyone:
We have 4 of Lyle's systems at the turning studio where I teach, so if I need to do something bigger than the Simple system can handle I have good option!

17:18:45 From Tim Hatch Bastrop, TX to Everyone:
LOL.. I tried to introduce the wife to Tim she let me buy one of his angle gauges... and said.. No to the Elbo Tool.... Tough Crowd that day..
I should have Greased the skids a little better

17:19:27 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas to Everyone:
LOL, Tim

17:21:47 From Stephen Makuka to Everyone:
Does Tim Yoder make his tools or does he outsource? I think Trend
Bosch makes the tools he sells.

17:23:03 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas to Everyone:
Stephen, his original Elbo Tool was outsourced locally, I believe.
I'm not sure about his new one.

17:23:32 From Scott Hampton, Visalia, CA to Everyone:
Trent assembles the hollowing jig when you order it. If you look at both his and Tim's they are different.

17:24:26 From Stephen Makuka to Everyone:
Thanks Scott. What are the differences?

17:26:14 From Scott Hampton, Visalia, CA to Everyone:
Tim's uses a separate tool rest whereas Trent's has a tool rest built into the jig. Tim's comes with a boring bar and handle. With Trent's you need to buy them separately.

17:27:34 From Scott Hampton, Visalia, CA to Everyone:
They both have videos on their websites on how their hollowing systems work

17:27:47 From Tim Hatch Bastrop, TX to Everyone:
Trent Bosch's rig uses a built in tool post that fits into your banjo, the rig articulates backwards from there and comes up over the built in tool rest if I remember correctly from his demo he

17:28:38 From Scott Hampton, Visalia, CA to Everyone:
That's correct. Tim's has a separate banjo/stand that attaches to the bedways.

17:28:40 From Tim Hatch Bastrop, TX to Everyone:
did at SWAT.... I didn't get a chance to check it out up close... better half was trying to get me to stick and move

17:29:23 From Scott Hampton, Visalia, CA to Everyone:

Please join me for the final chapter of 'The Kitchen Series'. Part Three is 'Woodturning Kitchen Utensils & Gadgets'. Date: Saturday, Sept. 10th, Time: 11:00 am pacific/2:00 pm eastern. It's sure to be a fun live demo, where I will be covering many projects including spatulas, spurtles, mortar & pestle, scoops, and honey dippers. I will also show how to use kits like ice cream scoops, a pizza cutter, and a meat tenderizer that make serving up your favorite foods a joy. Click on the link for more info and to register.

Tim's regional Elbo attached to the Quill of the Tail Stock

17:29:48 From Kade Bolger, Woodturner to Everyone:

yep. I did

17:30:07 From Mike Breland to Everyone:

Gotta go pick up my daughter. Great seeing some of you at SWAT that reminded me about this on Wednesday nights. I'll be back

17:30:26 From Tim Hatch Bastrop, TX to Everyone:

Thanks Mike....

17:30:56 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas to Everyone:

Yes, it did, Jeff. I did a review of it that included how I modified mine to use an MT2 blank in the quill.

17:31:18 From Stephen Makuka to Everyone:

I need to do a better comparison of the systems. It's a big financial investment so I don't want to have buyer's remorse after the purchase.

17:31:53 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas to Everyone:

You're right, Stephen... same with coring systems

17:34:16 From Jimmy Lee to Everyone:

I'm learning that a true woodturner will turn anything, so I need a ball and socket for my left shoulder. Anyone want to make one for me?□

17:34:41 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas to Everyone:

LOL, Jimmy!

17:35:06 From Bob Grinstead - Mansfield, Texas to Everyone:

White diamond leaves a white film

17:35:11 From Dean Grimes TX to Everyone:

Jimmy you are a brave man lol

17:36:18 From Scott Hampton, Visalia, CA to Everyone:
Stephen, Yoder's hollowing system is still out of stock. It has been for a while. It doesn't say when it will be in stock. Trent has all the parts to build one for you right now.

17:43:32 From Stephen Makuka to Everyone:
Thanks Scott. I did not know that. I wonder if it's a shipping supply issue from overseas.

17:46:54 From Heather-Spiritwynd Wood Stone and Bone to Everyone:
just catching up on the chat. it's a crazy night in the ER.
thanks for all the info on hollowing systems! I'll be looking at them when I get time

17:47:00 From Cap'n Eddie Castelin to Everyone:
I really understand that, we closed our business because of the manufacturing situation on our country.

17:48:24 From Billy Burt - Alamo City, Texas to Everyone:
No worries, Heather, what you are doing is more important.

17:48:30 From Heather-Spiritwynd Wood Stone and Bone to Everyone:
of course if anyone in the Good ol' US Of A has one they want to part with, I'd pay shipping! □ □

17:49:17 From Heather-Spiritwynd Wood Stone and Bone to Everyone:
thanks Billy. I may just need to use my whiskey smoker when I get home at midnight □

17:51:38 From Jimmy Lee to Everyone:
That's COOL...

17:52:10 From Billy Dillard Houma, Louisiana to Everyone:
this could be a great birdhouse lol

17:52:14 From Lan Brady to Everyone:
Nicely done Doug. Thanks for sharing

17:52:49 From Heather-Spiritwynd Wood Stone and Bone to Everyone:
that's so cute!!

17:53:03 From Tim Hatch Bastrop, TX to Everyone:
Very Cool Doug
