16:59:28 From Bob Grinstead - Mansfield, Texas : She is coming to SWAT this year!

From Billy B, Alamo City : Really? I hadn't heard that!

Reactions:

17:01:43 From Dale Slaughter Horseheads, NY : FYI Sam Angelo has a new YouTube channel SAMANGELOTURNS

From Billy B, Alamo City : Cool! Thanks, Dale!

From Tim Hatch Bastrop, TX : Sad about his content missing on YouTube.. I was looking for one of his demos and couldn't find it... finally found on of the 4 ways where he explained what happened to his channel

From Scott Hampton, 106° Visalia, California : Yes, his two other channels were hacked a few months ago, and all of his videos were deleted. He doesn't have very many of his videos saved on his home PC. He contemplated making a new channel, and thankfully he decided to do so.

From Joaquin Juatai, Thomasville, NC : The shear volume of excellent instructional content lost to the ether is horrible. I consider Sam's videos to be one of my teachers!

From Tim Hatch Bastrop, TX : Me too JJ.... Glad I am still able to pull up CPT Eddie and have him in my shop with me...

From Bob Grinstead - Mansfield, Texas : Yes I still watch his too.

From Scott Hampton, 106° Visalia, California : I have all my videos saved to an 8T hard drive and a cloud server just in case they're lost into cyberspace.

Reactions:

17:01:48 From Matt the Goblet Guy : Foil size or sizing. You paint it on, then let it sit for 15-20 minutes. Then you put the flakes on.

17:03:21 From Billy B, Alamo City : Museums use Renwax (a microcrystalline wax) on pieces to keep fingerprints off.

From Patrick Hoggard Chiskie, NC : Renasancse or something like that. I use that a lot.

From Todd Fipps -Dallas,TX : <https://www.amazon.com/Renaissance-Wax-Pixiss-Polishing-Pads/dp/B0CHFY9TXG>

17:04:09 From Matt the Goblet Guy : Spraying lacquer or that Rustoleum 2x also work on the chameleon flakes and dust.

17:07:09 From Mark S : Emma Flakes and size are available from Todd Raines at the wood turning tool store

From Mark S : <https://woodturningtoolstore.com/product-category/shop-supplies/>

17:07:34 From Matt the Goblet Guy : Sizing is a liquid glue. Dries transparent. Needs to cure a little and become tacky, before the flakes/dust will stick to it.

17:09:07 From Tim Hatch Bastrop, TX : If you go to SWAT there will be all kinds of Vendors.... Come Check it out if you are in WACO the Last Weekend of August....I'm coming up on Saturday to have lunch with everyone and visit with the vendors and see the Gallery...
